

Mellon Opposes Soldiers' Bonus

Secretary of Treasury Believes
Bonus Would Disarrange
Nation's Finances.

NO HOPE FOR TAX CUT

Bonus Law Will Spoil Treasury
Plans to Meet Other U. S.
Obligations.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will oppose the granting of a soldier bonus at this session of congress, it was learned Monday.

Mellon's opposition to the plan developed after it was announced that Senator Penrose and other senate leaders were to confer with him preparatory to taking up the soldier bonus bill.

Mellon's position is understood to be about the same as that of former Secretary Houston who held that the payment of a bonus to exservicemen would disarrange the nation's finances to a dangerous extent.

A subcommittee of the senate finance committee has prepared a bill although the framers of the measure object to that name and refer to it as an adjusted compensation measure. The subcommittee is to report to the full finance committee this week and a favorable report on the bill is expected.

The bill has five features but Mellon is understood to oppose particularly the features which call for an outlay of money or issuance of security by the government for exservicemen.

Mellon, when he confers with senate leaders is expected to point out:

That any hope of tax reductions will fail with the granting of a bonus.

That by the middle of 1923 this government must find ways to dispose of $7,500,000,000 now indebtedness which is coming due and that a cash payment to exservicemen or the issuance of an interest bearing security for them will knock out the carefully laid plans of the treasury for meeting these problems.

HARDING TO PASS ON FOREIGN LOANS

Administration to Be Given Opportunity to Kill Undesirable Bonds.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—Harding feels that the administration has passed the first milestone in the journey of understanding and good feeling to be traveled by the government and private business. The president announced that the government here had received satisfactory assurances from every group of international bankers to the effect that the latter would gladly cooperate with the government in the matter of financing enterprises for foreign peoples.

This is really a new departure for our government in peace time though European governments have always worked in close and intimate relationship with private industry and business. From April, 1917, the United States government did all the lending of money to foreign governments and peoples. Prior to that time, when America was neutral, the big banking institutions of this country lent large sums to Great Britain and France, and though the German sympathizers did all in their power to prevent the floating of such loans calling them unneutral acts, the United States government nevertheless didn't interfere in the slightest, giving neither encouragement nor support to the loans.

Now, however, the Harding administration has decided to become an active participant in the situation for entirely different reasons. The political aspect of foreign loans has disappeared and at present it is entirely a question of world economics and particularly a matter of domestic protection against the uninterrupted flow of American capital to foreign countries at attractive rates of interest.

SIX PERSONS LOSE LIVES BY DROWNING

Milwaukee.—Six persons lost their lives in drownings in the state over the weekend, according to reports here Monday.

Balthazar Shemulski, 11, was drowned here while swimming.

John Shafar, 65, a farmer, and his son, Peter, 18, were drowned at Browns, Wis. While in swimming the son was carried down river by the swift current and the father attempted to save him.

Melville Dahlberg, 14, was drowned while swimming at Ladysmith, and a boy believed to be Lawrence Johnson, 10, lost his life while swimming at Superior.

Gerald Bean, 2, drowned in Lake Mendota, Madison. He was the fourth person to drown in Lake Mendota this year.

Charles Foss and family and David Bretschneider and family autored to Oshkosh Sunday afternoon and had a picnic supper in the park.

TARIFF BATTLE IS PASSED TO HARDING

Minnesota Delegation Leads Fight Against Proposed
Duty on Lumber.

Washington.—Republican differences over the tariff will be laid before President Harding Monday.

Minnesota Republican congressmen secured an appointment with the president at 2 p. m. to protest to him against the proposed 25 per cent ad valorem duty on finished lumber.

"No member of the delegation desires to have a duty placed on lumber and we will do all in our power to prevent such action," Representative Newton of Minnesota, said.

Donald D. Conn, representing the Northwestern Lumber dealers, said farm organizations and various business enterprises had added their protests to those of the lumber men.

Another move in opposition to the Republican tariff program came to light Monday when it became known that Representative Young, North Dakota, a member of the ways and means committee, would oppose some of the rates in the proposed tariff bill.

Young recently fought the Longworth proposal which would have put the new tariff rates into effect as soon as the bill was reported. He will fight a proposal to reintroduce the Longworth plan immediately following the report of the bill.

CHARGE GIRL HAD PART IN MURDER

Cleveland, Ohio.—Marian McArdle was to be grilled by police Monday in an effort to substantiate a confession by Mrs. Emma Colavito, the fourth woman to be charged with the murder of Daniel Kaber, in July, 1919.

The confession, County Prosecutor Stanton says, accuses Marian of taking active part in the planning and the execution of the murder plot, instead of being a victim of circumstances, as heretofore believed. Marian was only 17, just a year out of high school, when the murder was committed.

Mrs. Colavito, heretofore known as the Sandusky midwife, was formally charged with murder early Monday afternoon, she had signed a confession that she had hired two assassins for Mrs. Kaber and that in company with these two men she had visited the Kaber home two days before the murder to get "the lay of the land."

"Marian McArdle played the piano down stairs to drown out the noise, while we were taken through the house and were shown the room where Kaber lay sick," Mrs. Colavito told police.

International Rotary Works For World Peace

By Clyde Beals
By United Press Leased Wire
Edinburgh, Scotland.—The militant strains of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," rolled through the packed convention hall here when Rotarians of the world began their formal sessions Monday.

Rotary's desire for some sort of universal peace organization was reflected in amendments proposed Monday for the constitution.

An amendment to add to the club's objects "the aid and advancement of international peace and good will through business and professional good fellowship," was submitted by the international board of directors.

An amendment proposed by the eighteenth district in the United States was that Rotary continue a study of labor problems in the hope of determining a method of reaching agreements.

The Halifax, N. S., club proposed that a committee be appointed to foster international amity.

The most striking thing on Monday's program, judging from the applause it won, was a pageant staged by Edinburgh ladies and lassies and representing the 25 countries in which Rotary is established.

America, England, India, Japan, Egypt, Spain, Mexico, Argentina, Ireland and Scotland were among the lands represented.

SCHOOL BOARDS ORGANIZE TO CUT MENTORS' WAGES

D. J. Ryan Makes Valiant Effort to Prevent Wholesale Salary Slashing.

Outagamie county rural school boards in a meeting at the courthouse Saturday afternoon voted in favor of a 20 per cent cut in wages of rural teachers for the coming year. The board members, mostly farmers, gave the low prices of farm products and general economic depression as their reason for asking a reduction.

The meeting began at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and the question of cutting teachers' wages was immediately introduced. At 11 noon the boards adjourned until 1:30 in the afternoon and the final vote on the matter was taken at 3 o'clock. From the opening talk until the presentation of the question, D. J. Ryan of Combined Locks opposed the issue stubbornly in defense of the teachers. Henry M. Culbertson of Greenville led the fight in favor of the reduction.

Because the teachers of the county are organized, the majority of board members were in favor of permanently organizing the school boards and this action was taken. The organization is to be known as the Outagamie County Rural School Board Federation. L. E. Nichols of Ellington was elected president; John Schwimmer of Center, vice president, William Williams of Grand Chute, secretary and treasurer.

The resolutions adopted by the organization provide for a meeting of representatives of the school boards to meet representatives of the teachers' association for the purpose of fixing a lower scale of salaries for the coming year, preferably 20 per cent lower than last year.

D. J. Ryan fought the resolution on the ground that it did not discriminate between the competent and the incompetent teacher but would slice the wages of good and poor teachers alike. This, he pointed out, was unfair inasmuch as many board members had admitted in the morning session that good teachers were cheap at high wages while poor ones were worth nothing. He asked an amendment to the resolution which would differentiate between the two classes. Champions of the measure, however, said that when wages went up, incompetent teachers demanded as high salaries as the best teachers and that as long as the teachers themselves made no discrimination, the school boards could not be expected to do so.

At the morning session the question of demanding a teacher to present a recommendation from the school board was discussed thoroughly. Here again Mr. Ryan opened fire and protested strenuously against serious consideration of this proposition. He said that this measure would give school boards too much power and would give them authority to put a teacher out of the profession if they disliked her. "Good teachers," said Mr. Ryan, "are often disliked by members of the school board. It would be absolutely wrong to demand such a recommendation from a teacher or because the school board might refuse to give it because of purely personal prejudices."

It was also proposed in the forenoon session that no school board should hire a teacher who did not have at least one year's experience in practical teaching. By pointing out that if there are going to be school teachers there must be beginners, Mr. Ryan blocked action on this matter.

Believing that the action of one county alone would not suffice in bringing about a general cut in teachers' wages, it is intimated the new organization will take steps to induce similar action on the part of neighboring counties.

Here are the outstanding features of the school board federation: Membership in the organization is optional with school boards; school boards are not bound by the action of the federation. The federation is not empowered to dictate the amount of salary paid a teacher by any school board.

If the 20 per cent cut becomes effective, teachers in this county will receive salaries ranging from $70 to $90 next year.

3-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Edith Buss, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Buss, 544 Hancock st., suffered broken leg when she was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Fred Sievert, 733 Milwaukee-st., as she was crossing Oneida-st., near the city hall, to drink from the bubbler. She was with her father on the opposite side of the street when she suddenly darted in front of the automobile. The child was taken to a physician's office and then to her home.

FORMER HEAD OF CARROLL NOW IS AN EPISCOPALIAN

Milwaukee.—Dr. Herbert P. Houghton, former president of Carroll college, Waukesha, was ordained to the Protestant Episcopal ministry in St. Paul Episcopal church here Sunday. Dr. Houghton expects to enter some field of higher education in connection with the Episcopal church.

ARREST MAN FOR SLAYING PROWLER

Milwaukee.—Police here Monday are conducting an investigation into the mysterious shooting of Joseph J. Wamser, 45, a construction engineer. Thomas Foran, 30, is being held for questioning. Foran told police he noticed a prowler in his yard, followed him and shot the man, who proved to be Wamser.

Wamser was married and the father of five children.

Fred Wilson, 35, colored, of Waukegan, Ill., is being sought for the shooting of Ralph Gordon, who is near death. The shooting took place in the Wilson home here, when Wilson returned home after an absence of six weeks.

Steel Head Condemns Closed Shop Principle

Accumulation of Capital by Individuals Defended by Judge E. H. Gary.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Opportunity, industrially, is offered fully only through the principals of the open shop, Albert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared at the commencement address at Syracuse university Monday.

"Industrially," he said, "the individual can realize the full advantage of the opportunities which this country offers, only through the principles of the open shop as distinguished from the dominance and arbitrary control of the union labor leaders. The platform of the labor union leaders is the antithesis of the principle of equal opportunity."

Speaking on the subject "Opportunity," Gary declared "in the world's history, labor, so called, was never heretofore more highly respected nor treated as liberally as it is today."

"There are many reasons," he said, "why the accumulation of capital should be encouraged and protected, why its possession by an individual, or a corporation has always been and always will continue to be considered honorable and desirable."

Citing the demands of labor leaders for standard wages, check off system of collecting union wages, the principle of seniority and abolition of company unions, Gary declared they shut out opportunity by nullifying individual qualification, industry and disposition.

"The open shop," he said, means freedom to the employee to engage in any line of employment, at any time and place, upon terms and conditions voluntarily agreed upon between employer and employee. The closed shop means that one deserving employment can secure a place only on terms approved by the union labor leader or leaders having jurisdiction over the particular closed shop. The closed shop contracts directly with the labor leader, by virtue of which conditions of employment and operations are fixed, as a rule, if not universally and invariably in practice, no one is permitted to engage or remain in employment in the closed shop unless he is a member of a labor union and carries the union card. The employee is restricted in his freedom of production, in particular kind and character of work, in promotion, regardless of just desserts and in many other respects detrimental to his freedom and independence."

Mrs. Neva Orthwein, the banker's first wife, is to appear, Heth announced, to testify that the defendant was a "love pirate" and stole her husband from her.

City and County Ready to Pay
Public Tribute to Men Who Gave Lives.

HOLD PRIVATE SERVICES

Bodies of Jahnke and Lang Rest in State in Courthouse
Until Funeral.

Appleton, which has been in mourning since Friday morning for its sons who lost their lives in the World war, was ready to pay public tribute to them this afternoon. Final arrangements for the public funeral which will honor all Outagamie county war heroes, were completed Monday morning.

Private funeral services were held Monday for Sgt. Herman Jahnke and Cook William J. Lang, whose bodies will be conveyed to Riverside and St. Joseph cemeteries in the afternoon in the military funeral. Services for Jahnke were held in St. Paul Lutheran church with the Rev. T. J. Sauer in charge, and in St. Joseph church for Lang. Relatives of each and many of their comrades in the World war attended.

The Rev. Father Glace, Winneconne, former army chaplain at Camp Custer, delivered the eulogy over Lang's body before a large audience. Solemn services were held with the Rev. Father Josephat in charge, assisted by the Rev. Father Fitzmaurice of St. Mary church and the Rev. Father Tully, Marmette. The address by Father Glace paid high tribute to the fallen heroes of the World war for their sacrifice.

Both bodies rested in state over Sunday at the late homes of the heroes. There were many visitors and there was a profusion of floral gifts. The bodies were conveyed to the churches Monday morning and then to the courthouse where they are to lie in state until 2 o'clock. Rainbow division veterans are standing guard at the courthouses.

Final preparations for the public services were completed by officials of Oney Johnston post of the American legion Monday morning. Brief services are to be held in the courthouse between 2 o'clock, and 2:30, after which the caskets will be mounted on the open hearses and conveyed to the cemetery under military escort. Full military honors will be paid at the graves. Buglers will sound taps and volleys will be discharged by firing squads.

Indications are that fully 5,000 people will be in the funeral procession. All former service men were notified to appear in uniform. Business will be suspended for several hours to enable employees to participate. Every civic, fraternal, labor and other organization will be represented and there will be delegations of city and county officials. They are to assemble at 1 o'clock at their respective meeting places and march to the scene of the parade formation.

HERE'S HOW TO CUT
WIGGLE FROM DANCE

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Chicago's Episcopal clergy found out Monday how to take the wiggle out of the poetry of motion.

The ministers, who met Monday to devise means of cleaning up dancing, called in J. Louis Guyon, proprietor of the "Paradise," one of the largest dancing halls in the country.

"What he told them."

"I agree with you that some of the dancing of today is too raw, to put it mildly."

"I have seen some of our sons and daughters dancing at church, balls, college and society functions in such a way that they should at least have had a marriage license before stepping on the ball room floor."

"We all know the effect on the morals of the boys and girls who wiggle cheek-to-cheek on the ballroom floor. And parents stand by and watch that sort of thing."

"Let's cut out jazz music. People don't dance indecently to good music. I tried an experiment at my academy by playing jazz music. In sixty seconds the dancers were wiggling and twisting in indecent positions—doing everything but dancing. It had the same effect as five big drinks of whisky."

Guyon allows nothing but the old fashioned dances in his academy.

TIE YOUR WAGON TO YOUR IDEALS; BISHOP ADVISES

Ideals Must Be High to Live Right Kind of Life, Lawrence Grads Hear.

"Your young men shall see visions," was the text that Bishop Charles Hayard Mitchell took Sunday evening for his baccalaureate address before the graduating class of Lawrence college.

"Young people see visions; old people dream dreams; young people live in the future; old people live in the past. Young people behold high ideals to which they look. Youth lives in the ideal."

"Children are easily entertained. Give a small boy a broom and he will make it a charger on which he drives on to the places of his fancy. Give a little girl a bundle of rags tied in the middle and she will press it to her heart with all of her maternal instinct."

"The great sinners of the Bible were all old sinners as was Abraham. Almost all great warriors have won their youth. We look to youth to do the adventurous and daring things. The high ideals of youth explain the heroism of youth."

"The race has advanced behind the leadership of heroic and adventurous youth. Our ideals lift us or lower us; make us or break us. We follow our ideals to heaven or to hell. It was Watts vision that led to his discovery of steam."

"Be for eternity what your ideals have been," continued Bishop Mitchell. "You can't think low and live high. Not failure but low aim is crime." Be true to the best vision best and compare it with the best, not that comes to you. Strive for the worst. Don't be satisfied to be better than the poorest. Measure up to your own high standards.

"Many individuals will countenance in the corporation what they would not tolerate in private life. Further, what is crime in town, is crime on the campus. Because you know thieves, do

EXPECT 1,000 AT HOLSTEIN PICNIC

Heifer Is to Be Given Away. Noted St. Paul Breeder Is to Be Speaker.

An attendance of not less than 1,000 people is expected at the annual picnic of the Outagamie County Holstein Breeders association at Finley Shepherd's farm, town of Osborn, Saturday. The event is to start at 10:30 and continue all day.

An announcement that has attracted the attention of many farmers is the presentation of a purebred Holstein heifer to someone attending the picnic. The animal is to be purchased this week and will be awarded through a unique competitive plan.

To see and hear one of the most prominent Holstein men in the country, J. M. Hackney, St. Paul, Minn., will be a treat to many breeders of the county. This man has had a keen sense of values, for he has bought many animals that brought some of the highest prices recorded in the United States. He knows how to raise purebred cattle on a big scale for profit and will impart many ideas to local breeders.

The amusement events will include a tug-o-war between Seymour farmers and the rest of the county. There will be ample refreshments, including all the Holstein milk the picnicers can drink, also a supply of butter-milk.

Forester Convention
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Langenberg will leave Monday afternoon for Two Rivers, where they will attend the state convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters. Mr. Langenberg is official delegate of Appleton Court No. 132.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS GREENVILLE PICNIC

Interesting Addresses Are Delivered at Meeting of Farmers and Businessmen.

Greenville Grange held its twenty-sixth annual picnic in Haase grove, Greenville, Saturday morning and afternoon. There was a large attendance. A delegation of business men from Appleton, representing chamber of commerce, also was present. A program was presented by the children and several speakers gave addresses.

R. J. Schaefer, master of the grange, was in charge. He delivered his annual address, mentioning the fact that farmers who pay so much attention to crops sometimes forget the most valuable crop of all, the children. He said the grange was the first organization to advocate equal rights for women; that it advocated self improvement and better citizenship.

Edward Nordman, head of the state division of markets, told of the need of higher taxes on northern cut-over lands so the owners would be forced to sell at prices low enough to suit the poor man's purse. He also said the community ought to get rid of the man who lives without work, the one who lives on the interest of his wealth.

Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, urged attendance at the public funeral Monday. The need of cooperation between the city and country was emphasized.

Prof. F. M. Ingler of Lawrence college, delivered the chief address, telling how much the city and rural districts were dependent on each other. Short talks also were given by Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, John J. Sherman, president of the Citizens Na-

JOHN GOODLAND
Proprietor Western Elevator
I had the interesting experience of working in a newspaper establishment in Wakefield, Mich., as my first job. I was then about 14 years old and I received $1 a day. Work consisted of doing everything. I remained in that job for two years.

After two years I went to a national bank. E. C. Kiemer, Neenah, and Reid Murray, Oshkosh, were in charge. A song "The Flag Goes Up" was sung by a group of boys. Six girls gave a jumping rope drill, and there was a parade drill by eight girls and eight boys. Miss Imogene Schaefer sang "My Shadow." Mrs. Mae Schroeder recited, "The Flower Bed," and a dialogue, "Hiring a First Class Man," was given by Miss Emma Schoettler and John Schaefer. The Misses Helen and Janet Menning sang, "If only I Had a Home Sweet Home." "My Mammy" was sung by a chorus and eight boys gave a ludicrous drill with kitchen utensils.

SHERMAN WILL SPEAK AT NICHOLS PICNIC

The village of Nichols in the town of Cicero is to have its first real Fourth of July celebration this year. John J. Sherman, president of the Citizens National bank will deliver an address. The celebration is to be conducted by the North Cicero and Dreppel locals of the American Society of Equity which have arranged for an industrial parade in the morning and automobile, horse and foot races, tug of war and baseball game in the afternoon and a dance in the evening.

William Krueger of Manitowoc, called on Appleton friends Monday.

CAN'T FIND TRACE OF MISSING GIRL

Police officers of Kaukauna and Appleton had obtained no trace of Helen Lopas, missing Kaukauna high school girl, up to noon Monday, although the search has been pushed vigorously. Officer R. H. McCarty, Kaukauna, visited Green Bay but found nothing to indicate that she had been there. He plans to visit Two Rivers, where she secured employment when she is alleged to have left home under similar circumstances two years ago.

The parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. William Lopas, feel confident that their daughter was not the victim of foul play. They believe she went in search of employment elsewhere and that word will be received from her at almost any time.

Kaukauna people are somewhat incensed over the way in which the affair was written up in a Milwaukee paper, saying the "dense woods about Kaukauna" were being searched by every available man, thinking she might have become lost. The paper compares her case to that of the late Henrietta Schneider, Green Bay, whose body was found in Fox river.

ELKS WILL OBSERVE FLAG DAY ON TUESDAY

Appleton Elks will observe flag day with appropriate services in Elk hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Arrangements for the event are under the direction of a committee consisting of Joseph Koffend, Jr., Harry Buks and Eric Galpin. Flag day is one of the biggest days on the Elk calendar.

Mr. and Mrs. Singler of Shawano shopped and visited here Saturday.

OFFICIALS STUMPED BY BADGER DOG TAX LAWS

Just how to administer the dog license law is now the difficult problem of town, village and city clerks and is weighing heavily on their minds. The law as its now stands provides a license fee of $3 for all male dogs and $5 for all female dogs but there are now two new bills before the legislature either of which, if passed, will repeal the present law and become effective at once.

One bill under consideration provides a license fee of $2 each for all dogs. Another provides a fee of $1 for male dogs and $2 for female dogs, leaving it to the opinion of the county board to enforce the law.

Dog taxes are due July 1 but it is possible that either of the new bills will be effective before that time. Just how to proceed with the enforcement of the law in Outagamie county is the ticklish problem confronting District Attorney Fred V. Heinemann.

INDISCRETION ABROAD

When a man is placed in a position of public trust, public service or public responsibility in the state he loses to a large degree his personal freedom and personal identity. He must weigh what he says and does with regard to its consequences to the state, not to himself. When he speaks in an official capacity he is not always at liberty to express his individual views; indeed, it is taken for granted he voices the opinions or policies of the government of which he is a part. So in turn, when it comes to the head of the government, he is not wholly free himself to say or do what he pleases. Even the president must exercise discretion and judgment in his public utterances, because while theoretically he may unbridle his tongue he nevertheless speaks for the nation and is accountable to the nation. If he does not discharge the commission he holds from the nation in the way the people intend that he should he and his policies will be repudiated, so that in the last analysis no one in the government can escape responsibility for speech or act.

Admiral Sims let temper run away with discretion when he made the speech in London before the English Speaking Union in which he made caustic reference to the active supporters of the Sinn Fein cause in the United States. Admiral Sims is of course entitled to his own views about the Irish question, as well as about the work of Irish sympathizers in this country, but they are purely his personal views and he is limited in expressing them to private discussion entirely. The moment he makes a public address he becomes a public servant and the government of which he is a part must accept or reject what he says, but he must always keep in mind that he is accountable to that government.

It was most unwise, for instance, for Admiral Sims to refer to Irish agitators in this country as "American when they want money, but Sinn Feiners when on the platform," and as "making war on America today." Likewise, to compare them to zebras and jackasses and to advise the British to ignore any resolutions which might be forced by them. The Irish question, deeply as we are interested in it morally, is a most delicate problem for the government. It must be handled with that tactful diplomacy which will preserve friendly relations with Great Britain and which at the same time does not disguise our true feelings toward Ireland and our sympathies for her democratic aspirations. Whatever is said or done on the subject must come either from congress or the president or the latter's authority. It is no business of an admiral in the navy to voice an opinion upon, and Secretary Denby is eminently right in his orders to Sims for an explanation and for immediate return to Washington. What disciplinary action may be taken is of less importance than that his words be officially repudiated and he himself at least reprimanded.

Men who like to hear themselves talk are constantly getting the government into trouble. There are innumerable instances where American representatives abroad, misled by social climbing or by temperamental influences, have caused the government no end of annoyance by emotional flights and rantings. It is only a few weeks since Col. Harvey, whose indiscretion was a safe gamble at the time he was made ambassador to Great Britain, seriously embarrassed the administration by his senseless and atrocious speech on American war aims and the League of Nations and forced President Harding to repudiate what he said at the first opportunity. The president would do well to summon his appointees about him and give them some sound advice on the control of speech and more especially on the golden value of silence."

THE PASSING OF COL. GALBRAITH

"The death of Col. Galbraith was a loss to the whole nation," was the comment of a western city mayor when he heard of the taking off of the head of the American Legion. In this sentiment he voiced the unanimous opinion of the nation. Col. Galbraith's splendid work for the disabled veterans of the war had so endeared him to every service man that it is doubtful whether the passing of any other man would have been so keenly felt by the American soldiers.

Immediately upon his election as head of the American Legion last fall Col. Galbraith threw himself whole-heartedly into the fight for simple justice to the disabled soldiers. This great work was just beginning to bear fruit when one of these sudden and inexplicable tragedies struck him down. Fate decreed that the American Legion's commander was not to live to see the full fruition of the work to which he had dedicated himself. But his example of unselfish devotion to a noble cause will be the inspiration to others to carry on and finish the task. When it has been finished, when the nation's obligation to every disabled soldier has been as fully discharged as it can be, the credit will be largely Col. Galbraith's.

Col. Galbraith was a true soldier himself, and his title, "Fighting Colonel of the Fighting First," won in the terrible contest of the Argonne, was well bestowed. Three governments had honored him for distinguished service in the field. But these honors were small compared with the great honor of having his memory forever enshrined in the hearts of the American soldiers.

THE CHANGING ORDER

The house today is to vote on the peace resolution, which may or may not end the long controversy waged over this irregular and sinister proposal for terminating the war. One of President Harding's campaign promises was that a "first act of the administration" when he was elected would be to adopt the Knox peace resolution, for which he had voted as a member of the senate. It is now three months since he was inaugurated and a year since the best minds commenced to congregate at Marion to define future policies, and the peace resolution is still up in the air.

The first thing Mr. Harding did do in the matter, upon becoming president, was to act upon Secretary Hughes' advice and ask the senate to denature the Knox resolution. It was accordingly completely redrafted and modified and amended out of all recognition, except that it still carried a repeal of the declaration of war. Then came the executive order to hold up action in the house pending settlement of the reparations dispute.

Now we have the majority report of foreign affairs committee of the house opposing passage of the Knox resolution, on the ground that the course advocated by the Pennsylvania senator is "unnecessary and perhaps unwise." To repeal the declaration of war with Germany the majority report says "might raise the inference that we have disavowed or repudiated the war" and might be regarded as a "mild apology for our participation therein." All of which is well stated and perfectly obvious.

Strange as it may seem, it is understood that President Harding now subscribes to the house view and that he favors striking out of the resolution repeal of the war declaration. This is not the first reversal of opinion in the presidential mind. We have had numerous examples of the effects of "before" and "after" taking. But so long as the president makes decisions that are sound and right he should not be taken to task for changes of heart, and we should remember the adage about the caliber of minds which never change.

The simple truth of course is that the president sees things from a different angle than he did when he was invested with no responsibilities. Furthermore, he has an able secretary of state to advise and guide him in foreign policies, with other able men in the cabinet to assist him in his domestic policies. Mr. Harding is at least fulfilling his campaign promises to take advice from his official family. For a show of consistency the administration is required to pass some kind of a peace resolution, but the absurdity and emptiness of the whole procedure is so clearly evident that it really makes little difference what form it takes. At best it will involve the government in a course that only complicates matters and renders more difficult the final making of peace in the way the constitution contemplates and provides.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY—Psychological Mistakes

Discipline is a good thing for a boy. Sometimes punishment tempered with reason is a good thing for him. But woe to those parents who deceive children in the attempt to command obedience.

One of the harmful statements parents make to children is "Johnny, if you don't stop (I'll whip you)" or "Mary, I won't speak again." Johnny soon discovers that no whipping fellows, even though he fails to stop, and Mary cannot help wondering why mothers keeps right on speaking about it in spite of her promise. Youngsters have a way of thinking over such affairs for themselves and it is natural for them to conclude that if father and mother can make statements so easily about small matters and then not carry them out, why, one must take their assertions about important matters with a grain of salt.

Another mistake which some parents indulge in is the bogey man myth, or the fairy and bad fairy myth, or any other myth involving the notion of reward or punishment from some wholly imaginary source. Every one of these familiar deceptions tends to alienate the child's true affection and respect for the parent who deceives him.

The worst of all the statements parents make to their own children is the one about the stork, for that story is told, not for the child's best interest or welfare, not because it can do anybody any good, but purely for the purpose of helping the parent to evade a sacred duty. It is a misstatement that has far-reaching disastrous effects upon the psychology of the child, for if mother and father can practice that kind of deception how can a child put confidence in the revisions of the yarn which mother or father may feel impelled to make later on? Think it over, fathers and mothers, and I hope to goodness you'll give your own children a fair start and never fear to tell them the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Think it over, potential parents, and resolve right now that if God does bless you with children you will not play them false. It is sad indeed to feel that there should be any such wall of deception erected between mother and daughter or between father and son.

I tell you it is a glorious thing for a fellow to know that his dad has never wilfully or intentionally deceived him in the smallest circumstance. It must be a wonderful happiness for a girl to know that her mother has never told her anything but the truth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Lost Washer
My three-year-old girl swallowed an iron washer about the size of a nickel two weeks ago. I have been worried about it. She says her stomach hurts. Is it too large to pass out of the stomach? How can we determine whether it has? (Mrs. B. D. C.)

ANSWER—It has no doubt passed from the bowel in the feces. Foreign bodies swallowed are usually passed in forty-eight hours or less. Perhaps the child's imagination is influenced by your anxiety. X-ray pictures would demonstrate the presence of a metal object.

An Eye Tooth
The other day in biting on some hard candy I broke off a piece of an eye tooth that had been filled. I swallowed the piece. Is there any danger in this? (W. O.)

ANSWER—Usually no danger is involved in swallowing such articles accidentally. It is better to avoid cathartics and eat such food as potatoes, squash, turnips, bananas, to produce bulky feces which will cover the foreign body so that it may be ejected from the bowel without difficulty.

Is Cancer Curable?
I quote the following from a news item:
"If every person would go to a reputable physician as soon as there is any evidence of cancer in his system the cancer would be 100 per cent curable," declared Dr. ——— in speaking on cancer."
"Dr. ——— stated that cancer is not inherited, infectious or contagious, and that it is painful only when the victim is near the end."
Can you subscribe to that? (G. P. R.)

ANSWER—Many victims succumb to cancer who might have been saved had they consulted reputable physicians in the first place, instead of flitting with death in the guise of an alleged "cancer cure" and a quack supporting to "take it out by the roots." Of course surgery and surgery without dangerous procrastination, is the one chance for the cancer victim. Cancer is not heritable or communicable, so far as is known, and in some cases pain is not a feature of the early stage, or indeed pain may be absent throughout the course of cancer in certain situations.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Monday, June 15, 1896
Joseph Spitz was in Milwaukee on business. Miss Ella Malone was taking a two weeks' vacation from her duties at Petuhon's. The Menasha Press was about to issue a daily paper.

Miss Lillie Mutholland of Kaukauna was the guest of Miss Mae Green.
W. A. Gerbrich of Park Falls was calling on Appleton friends.

Robert Duescher and Will Schuetter rode to Kaukauna on their wheels the day previous.
The consolidation of the Neenah and Menasha water interests and those of down river points into one corporation to be known as the Menasha and Neenah Water Power Co. was not consummated at Menasha the previous Saturday, but the indications were that it would be later.

Mr. and Mrs. William Irvine, ex-Secretary of State and Mrs. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gaynor, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Buchanan of Chippewa Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Falmage of Sheboygan were hosts of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stansbury. The party joined by a few Appleton friends celebrated the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stansbury by a cruise about Lake Winnebago on the yacht Mystic.

J. Warren Jewell, 36, died at his home at Kaukauna.

Forty-one members of the Pastime Cycling club of Green Bay visited Appleton the day previous, covering the distance of 32 miles in three hours.

Commencement week exercises of Lawrence university opened Saturday evening with the sub-freshman exhibition. Orations were delivered by Anita Gochbauer, Edith M. Reilly, Katherine Bucklin, Thomas R. Moyle, Edna M. Parkes, and Richard Evans.

WOMEN WORKERS IN WAXWORKS

London is collecting in photographs and wax figures a complete record of what women did to help win the war. For the present a part of the record is displayed in the Whitechapel art gallery. There is the woman ship painter, the tanner, the coke quencher, the stoker, the pirship maker, the munition worker, the farmerette. There is a picture of a woman operating a 100-kilowatt electric engine, and of another driving an electric crane. Women are shown working in gas works, dressing breeks, spreading tar, slicing, scouring burner parts, testing meters, wheeling coke, carrying heavy sacks, and working in naphthalene factories, flour mills and sawmills.

New Parties In Congress

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—Are both of our grand old parties about to pass off the political scene? The question is justly asked by the formation within the present congress of a series of little groups, or blocs, each of which represents a definite economic interest, such as that of labor, the farmer and the veterans of the World war.

Haskin

This is the form of organization which prevails in most European parliaments. Under it, legislation is passed by a system of quid-pro-quo among the various groups. The labor group agrees to support certain things the farmers want in return for support from the farmer bloc on certain other measures, and so on.

Friends of this development in our congress say that it means the lardy funeral of a party system which has long been dead. They say that our two parties have long since ceased to stand for genuinely divergent interests. Their platforms, it is claimed, have been made as noncommittal as possible, and have thus become almost meaningless. Thus, any platform professing the undying friendship of the party for the farmer, but is not highly specific as to what it is going to give him. He gets about the same, no matter which party is elected. It is natural therefore, that the farmers should organize to make their real needs known, and that the senators and representatives who are willing to support those needs should organize also. Here is the beginning of a series of parties, each of which will represent certain real needs and desires of a real class of men in place of two parties, each of which is held together only by habit, heredity and sentiment.

This innovation is viewed with alarm by many legislators, who see their whole machinery of party government threatened.

The Old System.
In the days when "Uncle Joe" Cannon presided as speaker, the direction of legislation rested largely in the hands of the speaker. He appointed members of all committees, and even designated who should be chairmen. This system was overthrown and succeeded by the rules which at present govern the conduct of the house, and legislation before it, in the famous "Cannon rules fight."

At this time, the legislative program is largely in the hands of a small body of men known as the "steering committee." No bill of any importance has much chance unless it wins the approval of this committee. There the course of legislation is mapped out, and legislative tactics decided upon.

With the overwhelming Republican majority elected last fall, it was generally supposed that everything would be easy for the majority in the house and senate. Now rocks and reefs are beginning to loom ahead, placed there, not by the small Democratic minority, but by the formation of groups or blocs, made up of members of both the big parties, who are openly declaring their intention to stand together on various questions.

A group is already in existence, numbering in its ranks members of the house and senate alike, avowedly holding together, regardless of party affiliations, representing labor in congress. Recently was announced the formation of a farmer group or bloc, composed of 20 senators and 100 representatives all of whom will place the passage of what they consider needful agricultural legislation above all other political and legislative consideration.

Twenty-four ex-soldier members of the house, many of them first term members, have affiliated and declared war on the regular army whenever that institution enters the legislative lists.

There is also a Pacific coast group, and a group pledging itself to placing reclamation projects by irrigation above party consideration and political lines of cleavage. Other groups are formed or are in process of formation. Not only do the members of these groups pledge themselves to stand solidly together for the class of legislation they desire, but to vote together on all other projects where it is decided that the interests of their group would be furthered.

The strength of these organizations of the members of congress, all of which will be minorities, of course, lies in the hope of being able to force the Republican majority leaders to approve their legislative programs.

With the growth of the groups, and collateral to it, is the astonishing growth in the national capital of "class lobbies." It is estimated that there are about 125 of these lobbies in Washington conducting campaigns for the adoption of the measures which the interests they represent advocate.

Congressmen In Revolt

In addition to this pressure on congress, which has had much to do with the formation of the blocs in congress, there has been a reaction on the part of sincere members of the senate and house against the old methods of party rule. These men, because of their own convictions, are ready to throw overboard the old control of legislation by party caucus and majority leadership.

If it becomes firmly established, this group formation will be an entirely new thing in American legislative life. With rare exceptions, the membership of the senate and house has been made up of Republicans and Democrats since the Civil war. There was the great upheaval of 1912, when the Progressive party was formed, but that party and its membership soon drifted back to the Republican party. Occasionally a lone Socialist manages to get elected to the house, or the representative of some new party. In a body of 435 members, however, this is insignificant as party representation.

The swing of the pendulum back and forth between Republican and Democratic control would be checked completely by actual alignment of most of the house and senate members in the groups being formed. No one group could muster sufficient membership to control either body. Each in itself would be a minority. Legislation would pass when groups numbering sufficient members to make up a majority of the house united on a measure and pushed it through.

It is predicted by legislative veterans that the veto of any measure by the president would be harder to overcome—two-thirds of the voting membership of each branch of congress being necessary—than under the present organization.

With the present overwhelming Republican majority in congress party lines on legislative matters are already weak and lax. It is estimated that on more than three-fourths of the measures brought before congress recently, party lines have been broken. But in every case where a measure was supposed a strictly party measure, a sufficient number of Republicans have stood by their leaders to insure its passage.

A dangerous aspect of the effort to reorganize the membership of congress, from the standpoint of old leaders, is the fact that many of the groups will be interlocking, having many members, for instance, who would belong both to the irrigation group and to the farm group. While the ambitions and aims of many of the groups are widely divergent, yet a combination of some of the larger minorities by common interest and by "log rolling" might control congress and legislation.

By "log rolling" is meant the trading of support between groups. Labor will support certain farm measures and the farmer bloc in return will support labor legislation.

It is largely by such agreements between individuals and unorganized groups that legislation is passed now. After all, our congress is nothing but a hodge-podge of more or less divergent interests and almost every law that passes is a product of much trading and compromising. To organize each of these interests separately and clearly, it is argued, so that the voter may know just what each man and each group represents, is to throw a beam of logical light into the haze of buncombe and intrigue which clothes the political scene.

UNDERWEAR

As cool as two polar bears!

A regular customer of ours was making his regular trip to Milwaukee.

In the smoking compartment between politics, spark plugs and views on how to run the country, a man sitting across from our friend leaned over and said—

"Not to be impertinent—but where do you buy your underwear? — you look as cool as two polar bears."

"Why Two polars?" asked our friend.

"Because two are cooler than one," came the reply.

We sold the underwear that prompted the thought.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Please state the color of the coat and hair of President and Mrs. Harding and Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge. G. McK.

A. President Harding has gray hair, and blue-gray eyes, and Mrs. Harding has gray hair and blue-gray eyes; Vice President Coolidge has reddish hair and light blue eyes, while Mrs. Coolidge has very dark hair and grayish-blue eyes.

Q. What do the initials H. G. stand for in H. G. Wells' name? R. G.

A. Mr. Wells' given name are Herbert George.

Q. When did Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Circus unite? K. M.

A. This arrangement was effected in October, 1918.

Q. How can objectionable flavors be removed from butter? E. J.

A. Objectionable flavors that develop in butter can be partially removed by placing the butter in a large vessel, melting it slowly, then adding to it about twice its volume in hot water. The melted butter and water should be thoroughly mixed in order to give the water an opportunity to absorb the objectionable flavors from the butter. After allowing the butter to stand for a few minutes, the fat can be poured off. This should be repeated, after which the fat may be allowed to harden. The resulting product is butter fat and not butter. The flavor has been improved, but the butter will be found very short and brittle so that it can be spread with difficulty. It is, however, suitable for cooking purposes.

Q. Who is the present ruler of Afghanistan, and who is his heir? W. G. H.

A. The name of the present Ameer of Afghanistan is Amnullah Khan and his heir and the throne is his oldest brother, Sardar Inayat Ullah Khan.

Q. How did the expression "Indian giver" originate? J. E. E.

A. The expression "Indian giver" is used in reference to a person who takes back a gift after having bestowed it. The allusion is to the fact that an Indian expects an equivalent for his gift or its return.

Q. Will the Niagara Falls cut through the rocks and drain the Great Lakes? W. J. M.

A. Niagara Falls is now a part of the drainage system of the Great Lakes, and it is true that the gorge is being cut back continually. The recession of the American Falls averages .2 to .6 of a foot a year, while the Horseshoe Falls shows a rate of 5 feet a year.

Q. Will a cedar chest absolutely keep moths out of furs? W. N. D.

A. All furs and woolen goods will be protected from moths when kept in a real cedar chest if there are no moths or worms in the garments when being packed.

Eavesdroppers

Now my dears I haven't the least doubt in the world that all this time you've been thinking that Zippy Zebra and Mr. Ostreich and his wife, Zippy's good friends, (although they quarreled now and then as good friends do) were all alone out there in the Land That Was Farthest-Away. Of all I suppose it never occurred to you that the two great big things that looked so much like gray rocks might have been shoes with a pair of feet inside them that belonged to a funny little fairy with a surlicue top-knot and a very scarce nose.

And I'm certain as Sunday that you never guessed that the four green things sticking out from beneath the hobnob-bush were anything different than a very good salad dinner for Zippy himself.

But indeed your wrong! These also, were magic shoes and they, too, had feet in them—lovely pink ones, which kept going up into legs, two of which belonged to a lovely person with golden curls and blue eyes called Nancy, and the other two of which belonged to a fine young chap called Nick.

And certain as Monday, they had heard every single word Zippy Zebra and Mrs. Ostreich had said. Once, when Mrs. Ostreich raised her head and said, "I believe we are having an earthquake!" It was only Pippety-Flap holding his plump sides and shaking fit to kill. Nancy and Nick laughed, too, because having the Language Charm, the Magical Mash-room had given them, they could understand ostreich-talk and zebra-language as easily as you could understand American.

But all at once Pippety-Flap sobered. "Say," he whispered, "Do you s'pose by all his talking of shoes 'n' boots 'n' things, that he means us?"

"IT MUST NOT BE AGAIN!"

So said President Harding at the Hoboken, N. J., memorial for 51st soldier dead from Europe. Extreme left, War Secretary Weeks and Mrs. Harding.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920)

One Who Gambled With Love

The new freedom for married folks never before had been voiced by me. Never would I have hesitated to stay at home alone, in the old fashion, if my husband could not escort me to a play. I was positively astonished to hear myself reminding Martha of the new and different custom of society.

"Frankly, I wish I could let you play Lady Fixit, my dear! It would be wonderful to share my pleasure with Arthur Mansfield. You see, Jane, he and I look at everything in the same way."

Then I bounced Ann. She likes to get down town alone, likes to look up on life as it moves swiftly in streets, shops, hotels and offices. Daddy Lorne does not permit the Lorne woman to invade the precincts of his chemical company. Ann doesn't care to bat around down there but she often visits Martha. So I wasn't surprised when she bounced in and interrupted with:

"I'm going to the hospital! I'm going to see that old drunk woman! Come on Martha! Come along Jane!" But Martha had an appointment to keep. I agreed to go.

"But we'd better wait a day or two to let her return to her right mind, if she has one."

"Can't wait!" I gave her my gold purse. I looked at Ann in great disgust. That bag was a marvel and a Christmas gift from our father-in-law. I used it to coax her out of the fire. You ought to remember, Ann reminded me. "Now I want to buy it back before she sells it to somebody else."

Presently we found ourselves beside a bed in a hospital ward. The old woman was dreadful to look upon. She was a halloween witch. I decided as Ann bargained for her bag Morrison, the detective must have made a mistake. He had told us that the dere Let Ann had salvaged from the jail fire was a woman who had been in the workhouse more times than any other offender and that she had once been a beauty famous from end to end of the land. Plenty remembered her name—Madeleine Marche—and made it a habit to buy theatrical persons from her as she sat on the playhouse steps or tottered through a crowded cabaret.

Could any alluring beauty have been built upon the pitiful skeleton stretched on the hospital cot?

I had often wondered what became of pretty ladies such as had fled from the burning prison. Madeleine Marche there on the hospital bunk, was my answer.

ARMY OFFICER EXPLAINS RULE FOR HALF MAST

There is a wide difference of opinion in Appleton as to the meaning of "half mast" judging from the various distances from the top of the staff at which flags are flying. "Half mast," said a military officer, "means that the flag should be its width below the top of the staff. For instance, if a flag is six feet wide it should be six feet below the top of the staff and if 12 feet wide 12 feet below the top of the staff."

DUTY IMPELS HER TO STATE FACTS

Health Restored At 62, St. Paul Woman Wants Others to Know Tanlac Did The Work

"I know Tanlac is a real medicine, for it has restored my health and I have gained thirteen pounds in weight besides," said Mrs. John Hauschild, 454 Bidwell Street, St. Paul, Minn. "For the past five years I had been a constant sufferer from stomach trouble and I had gotten into such a run-down condition I could hardly get around. I was troubled a great deal with nausea and sour gas, and at times could retain scarcely a thing on my stomach. My nerves kept me restless and irritable all the time, my sleep was never sound or restful and when morning came I felt that I hardly had the strength to get out of bed. All day long I felt weak and draggy and the least exertion would tire me out."

"When I started taking Tanlac I had little idea it would help me, but right away I began to eat better and sleep better and before long I could see that it was building me up in every way. I continued to improve until now all my troubles have gone and I feel better than I have in many years. I can eat just whatever I care to and digest it perfectly. My nerves are steady and I sleep soundly every night. I am sixty-two years old, but I seem to have unusual strength and energy for a person of my age. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing to me, and I feel that I would not be doing my duty if I didn't tell the people about this medicine."

Some homes look so cool and inviting that you feel refreshed the minute you step into them

You no doubt have had occasion to call at certain homes, among your friends or acquaintances, on hot and sultry summer days, and the minute you stepped upon their porch or into their living room the cool and inciting look of their delightful furniture made you feel refreshed at once.

How comfortable and pleasing everything was! It made you take on new life—a different view of things—and you then and there decide that you were going to make your home have that delightful cool and pleasing appearance—yes, a place of comfort.

But did you do what you quietly said to yourself you were going to do? Did you follow up your inspirations or are you still struggling along with uncomfortable and ill looking furniture? Don't put it off—come in and see our attractive stock of ideal summer furniture.

BLAINE CONSIDERS 3 APPOINTMENTS

Very Probable That Governor Will Name New Man on Industrial Commission.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—Governor John J. Blaine is expected to send three nominations to the senate this week for confirmation.

The most important appointment yet to be made by the governor is a member of the industrial commission to succeed George P. Hambrecht who has been chairman of the commission for the last four weeks. The appointment is for six years and carries a salary of $5,000 annually. Although there is a good deal of speculation in industrial circles and among labor organizations for the reappointment of (Chairman) Hambrecht, it is generally believed the appointment will go to a representative of labor as all three of the present members of the commission are lawyers. Mr. Hambrecht, who before taking up the practice of law in Grand Rapids was a high school principal for seven years is said to have been offered the position of director of vocational education to succeed John Callahan who on July 1, succeeds C. P. Cary as state superintendent of public instruction. Mr. Hambrecht's present term expires July 1.

It is rumored that Senator Julius Dennhardt, Neenah, will be appointed state oil inspector to succeed Senator B. N. Moran, Rhinelander. The term of Mr. Moran does not expire until August, but under the law the appointment must be confirmed by the senate.

The third appointment is that of state treasury agent to succeed M. J. Luff, Milwaukee, whose term expires in August. Half a dozen or more names have been mentioned for the place but so far Gov. Blaine has given no indication as to who will be recommended.

College Bill.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—The final fight against the establishment of five junior colleges in Wisconsin will be made Wednesday when the Kiesner motion to reconsider the vote in the assembly by which the Nye bill was concurred in will be taken up.

The bill which has passed both houses after considerable debate, provides for the establishment of junior colleges in five cities in the state, the state to pay two-thirds of the salaries of the teachers for which an appropriation of $50,000 is made.

This means that, if the assembly does not reconsider its action, five cities in Wisconsin will be given state aid in the establishment of junior col-

Tincher Bill Passes.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Chicago—If the Tincher bill becomes a law, undoubtedly the grain exchanges of this country will close, and the price-fixing machinery for grain will remove to Winnipeg, Canada and Liverpool, England.

This is the opinion of Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

"The consuming countries, instead of the producing countries," he added, "will fix the price of grain, and the farmer will suffer."

"During the war the exchanges were blamed for the high price of wheat, and now they are blamed for the low prices."

Racine, Oshkosh, Wausau and Superior have already taken steps to secure such an institution if the bill becomes a law. Eau Claire is mentioned as the possible fifth city, while there has been a rumor that Sheboygan or Manitowish might apply for one of the institutions. The measure is said to meet the approval of Gov. Blaine and that he has signed his willingness to sign the bill if passed.

The most of the opposition is said to come from the private colleges of the state. Beloit, Carroll, Lawrence, Northwestern and Ripon and their friends opposing the measure.

The race is now on in earnest and the ladies are running very close with the possibility of any one of them now entering of winning. Below is a coupon which is good for 500 votes, if deposited with one dollar at any of the voting stations.

Purpose of Bill.
The bill is designed to abolish the practice in grain markets of "puts" and "calls," "ups" and "downs," and "indemnities" by levying a tax of 20 cents a bushel on such transactions.

A similar tax is provided on contracts for future delivery made outside of "contract markets" to be designated by the secretary of agriculture, except when the seller is the actual possessor of the grain.

The bill will "absolutely destroy manipulation," according to Representative Tincher, Republican, Kansas, its author, although it does not abolish what is known to the grain trade as the "legitimate hedge," he said.

The Lantz bill to curb grain exchanges now in the Illinois Legislature, is regarded as much more drastic than the Tincher bill, but Griffin says there is not much chance of its passing.

Farmers' organizations take the attitude that unrestrained trading in contracts for the future delivery of grain is gambling; that such trading affects prices, to the profit of the "gambler" and to the loss of both producer and consumer.

They advocate that future trading be so limited as practically to exclude summer by the amount of freight that is being handled between Green Bay and Fond du Lac. While all kinds of shipments are being made, the increase is due particularly to the great quantities of coal that are being transported from Green Bay to the paper mills and manufacturing plants doubled this year as additional barges and tugs have been placed in service. While freight service has increased, excursion business has diminished and it is only occasionally through the locks. So far there have been two this year. Locktenders are no longer annoyed by gasoline launches which a few years ago were so numerous they kept the government officials busy the greater part of their time.

"You see that tug and barge loaded with coal in the lock down there," said Otto Nelson, bridge tender on Lake-st. while occupying a bench waiting for the signal to open the bridge. It was the tug Junior that was in the lock and attached to its side was a barge loaded with 350 tons of hard coal that was on its way up the river.

"When that goes through it will be 11 times that I have opened that bridge today. Thursday I opened it ten times and also ten times Wednesday. Practically all of the coal shipped is soft coal. It is only occasionally that a cargo of hard coal is seen."

Mr. Nelson has had charge of Lake-st. bridge for nearly a quarter of a century. The structure is now operated by electricity, but until a few years ago he was required to turn it by hand. Instead of pushing a long wooden lever in a circle for ten minutes as was formerly necessary in opening the bridge, all Mr. Nelson now has to do is to give a small iron handle a half turn and the electricity does the rest. The time required to open or close the bridge is cut down more than one-half.

When Mr. Nelson entered upon his duties there were no automobiles and motor trucks. Now they line up on each side of the canal for a distance of two blocks nearly every time he opens the bridge.

PUNCTUAL AT S. S. TO GET TICKETS

Attendance at the First Congregational Bible school Sunday morning was larger than usual for such a warm day. The children had a good reason for attending, however, because they were provided with free car tickets to the all-church field day at Sunset point, Kimberly, next Wednesday. A previous announcement of this fact made the youngsters desirous of being on hand.

Another distribution of tickets will occur at the church Wednesday morning for all who did not obtain them Sunday. They are to be given to mothers and fathers as well, if they so desire. Committees in charge are working for a record attendance, hoping to have between 500 and 1,000 of the church people at the outing.

The entertainment committee, headed by Chester Roberts, has prepared a novel program for the afternoon. There will be games and contests of various kinds for the children. Other events will be going on simultaneously for the adults, including a few freak races for those who thought they were too old to move faster than a walk.

Final preparations will be made at a meeting of all committees at 4:45 Monday afternoon in Actual Business college.

Highest Quality at a Price Unequalled

Monday, June 13, new low Chandler prices are effective. This new Chandler price puts the Chandler car right out in front. $1785 for a five-passenger touring car was the price of the Chandler of eight years ago. The big, handsome, powerful Chandler of today, constantly developed, enlarged and refined as the the years passed, would have sold in that earlier day for twice its present price.

Our action in restoring that 1913 price for today's Chandler, is convincing evidence of the constancy of the Chandler Company's long established policy of high quality at low price. The Chandler price has never at any time been advanced because of over-sold trade.

Chandler Offers So Much More For So Much Less

Other cars of many kinds and many motors have come and gone while the Chandler Six lives and grows. There is only one Chandler Six. There is no other car like it. No other car, within hundreds of dollars of the Chandler price, has the features characteristic of the highest type of design and construction for which the Chandler Six is justly famous.

The buyer of a new car will find an extraordinary degree of satisfaction in the Chandler.

Chandler offers all the power and speed and comfort and dependability of service that the discriminating buyer desires, and it provides these qualities in full measure at a price unequalled.

The Men Who Launched the Chandler, Build It Today

Standing back of, and responsible for, the Chandler car is a substantial organization. At the head of this organization today are the same men who conceived the Chandler Six and created it and have spent these eight years in multiplying its friendships.

GRADUATION ON AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Three-day Commencement Program at Kaukauna Opens With Play Tonight.

Commencement exercises of Outagamie County Training school, Kaukauna, will open Monday evening with the class play, "Patty Makes Things Hum." It will be staged in the school auditorium. Class day exercises will be held Tuesday and graduation exercises Wednesday evening.

The cast of characters for the play includes Capt. Braithwaite, British army officer, H. Van Straten; Capt. Little, American officer, Elmer Uecker; Mr. Green, the host, Leonard McHugh; Mr. Smith, a neighbor, H. Panperin; Mrs. Smith, Frances Huebner; Mrs. Green, Clara Halloran; Patricia Little, who makes things hum, Agnes Caravan, Helen Braithwaite, Mary Rose Finnegan; Hope Dunbar, Edith Meyer; Hyacinth, Lillian Glenzer.

Class day exercises will be held at Ridge point. The morning program will include presentation of the spade by Leonard McHugh, class president, acceptance, president, junior class history, Luita St. Mitchell, Rozella Konieczny, class prophecy, Kathleen Handyside, Rose Jansen; class characterization, Mabel Gillis, Florence Rademacher; mementos, Elizabeth Schroeder, Hilda Tiedt, class song, Esther Buboltz, Agnes Jolin.

Alumni will join the students at a picnic dinner at noon. The homecoming and reunion will follow.

Prof. Cooley of Lawrence college will deliver the commencement address at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. The girl graduates are to wear white middie uniforms with black ties.

WANT LICENSE LAW FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Attempts are being made in Outagamie county to stir up sentiment among the state legislators for the passage of an amendment to the state automobile license law which would require all automobile drivers be licensed by the state.

The proposed amendment would require every driver to be certified as to his age, good hearing and clear vision. If he was below a certain age or was defective in sight or hearing, a license to drive an automobile would be denied him. Should he at any time be taken into court for any offense in connection with violation of automobile and road laws, his license would be revoked for a length of time conforming to the gravity of the offense.

Those who are taking steps to have the amendment introduced in the legislature demand that something be done to reduce the number of automobile accidents. They charge country as well as city drivers with extreme carelessness and say that most accidents are caused by careless truck drivers and sons and daughters of automobile owners who take the car for "joy rides."

Invitations are being sent to all parts of the county by Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, urging farmers to turn out for the first annual picnic of the Outagamie county Poland China Breeders association at the Frank Zahrt farm, Wednesday.

Many families are planning to attend because of the speakers who are scheduled, and also to afford themselves opportunity to participate in the contest to obtain a purebred Poland China gilt free. R. Fargo and Dr. Purcell, Madison, are to speak and a feeding demonstration conducted at the Zahrt farm with a brood sow by Prof. Milton H. Scott, is to be discussed.

Harry Jack, C. Schwab and Frank Zahrt are members of the committee in charge of the arrangements.

FEAST OF WEEKS IS OBSERVED BY JEWS

Special services were held in Temple Zion and Moses Montefiore synagogue Sunday in observance of "Shabbath" or the feast of weeks.

The Shabbath in reality commemorates three separate events. It is called pentecost as it marks the completion of the seven weeks from the passover. It is also in commemoration of the day of the first fruit offering and as a result the temples are decorated with flowers and green branches. The third event commemorates the well known Jewish tradition of Zeman Matthan Torahenu of the time of the giving of the law. It is the anniversary of the day when God gave the ten commandments to Moses on Mt. Sinai.

Her Pet Was Not Killed But Stunned

There was mingled pathos and joy in the heart of a little girl Saturday when her pet dog was struck by an automobile on Collegeave. The blow caused the canine to topple over and lay seemingly lifeless on the pavement. The child stood over the body and sobbed.

A sympathetic gentleman took the dog in his arms and carried it to the sidewalk. Not knowing what to do, the girl walked on. Suddenly the dog moved a bit, raised his head and looked around. He saw his little mistress about half a block away, leaped to his feet and ran after her. The surprised little lady put her arms around her dog and hugged him. The blow had stunned the animal without injuring him.

STEAM SHOVEL TO FINISH JOB BY END OF THIS WEEK

Froemming & Radtke of Milwaukee, who are doing the excavating for the new Lutheran Aid society building, are making good progress and will complete the work by the end of this week. Their steam shovel started near the center of the north side of the site and excavated a wide gap to Collegeave and back. Saturday morning it started south on the remaining west portion of the work which takes in a portion of the sidewalk on Superior st. and will return to the east portion. Rocks and stumps fail to impede the shovel's progress.

FINDS APPLETON GOOD CATTLE BUYING CENTER

Earle C. Reed, Denver, Colo., is here buying his thirtieth carload of Holstein cattle within two years, for shipment to the west. He is accompanied by Paul H. Dupertuis, Logel, Wyo., owner of a large farm.

Mr. Reed is agricultural agent for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. His work is to help farmers in the western states improve their properties and make their farms more profitable by having better grades of cattle. Mr. Reed finds the locality about Appleton one of the best and most convenient centers in the country in which to obtain good dairy cattle, and does most of his buying here. The carload just purchased will be shipped to the Dupertuis farm. Two purebred Holstein bulls are included in the lot.

Joseph Koffend, Jr., was a business visitor in Milwaukee Friday.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

HAY FEVER PREVENTION

[Monday Health Talk No. 23, by James A. Rolfe, D. C.]

The sting was never taken from the hay fever season until the efficacy of chiropractic spinal adjustments in this ailment was discovered.

Authorities agreed that the infection was the flying pollen of summer. They also agreed that about nineteen out of every twenty are entirely immune to the disease, and that all would be immune if the disease resisting power of the mucous linings of the air passages were of normal health and vigor.

When a full supply of nervous impulses are conducted over spinal nerve lines to these parts, the normal resistance is present. Chiropractic spinal adjustments freeing the nerve lines of interfering pressure, will restore normal health and vigor to these mucous linings. To prevent hay fever begin chiropractic spinal adjustments before your "hay fever season" starts.

Sufferer from Birth Overcomes Tendency

"My daughter Ada was a sufferer from hay fever every year almost from her birth. In the midst of her last annual attack, which was so violent it caused a discharge from the eyes which necessitated washing them in warm water before she could see, we tried chiropractic and the relief was almost immediate. Before the disease had run its usual course she was well. Last year there was no return of the ailment."

WHAT IS SOLVAY COKE ?

It is the product which results from baking a proper mixture of superior coals in air-tight retorts by means of external heat, in much the same manner as bread is baked in an oven—it is really baked coal. The patented Solvay Process removes the smoke, soot and tarry matter, leaving practically pure carbon, the heat element. The fuel that has the most carbon will give the greatest heat.

BELIEVE HARDING WILL GIVE SUPPORT TO REVISED TREATY

Versailles Pact, Sans Treaty
Features, Gaining Friends in Washington.

By H. N. Ricker
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—The treaty of Versailles will be back in the senate within a few days with a message from President Harding recommending its ratification.
That is the contention which is growing very fast among those in Washington who have been closely following events since the new administration came into power.
It will be a greatly modified treaty as compared with the form which President Wilson sent it to the senate and had sent back to him with the "mildly" resolution.
A section of the clauses referring directly or indirectly to the League of Nations will be eliminated and the use of force in the settlement of international disputes will be prohibited.

Other Changes
The Harding-Hughes policy, not to make a compromise with Germany but to make peace with her in a partnership with our allies in the war and on the basis of the treaty negotiated at Versailles.
Ideas Changed
Whatever may have been the aims and purposes of Harding when he first took office, the facts of the international situation as they have developed since seem to have convinced him that a separate peace treaty with Germany is not only unnecessary but impractical.
It is doubtful whether President Harding ever intended to make a separate peace with Germany. The fact that he made Hughes and Hoover members of his cabinet and has relied upon them to straighten out the tangle of our foreign relations is strong proof to the contrary.
Neither of them has ever favored discarding the Versailles treaty. The most extreme position either of them has taken is that it should be modified to relieve the country of certain obligations and responsibilities which it might not assume.
The so-called latter enders in the senate under the leadership of John Sen and Borah will fight like snakes to prevent the ratification of the treaty even with the league covenant and other objectionable features cut out.
The administration knows this perfectly well and is preparing for the battle.
It is hoped that when the show-down comes friendly relations will have been established with enough operators through patronage and other factors to more than offset the Johnson-Borah influence and that there will be a safe margin over the two-thirds required for ratification.
Assuming that the administration wins its fight and gets the treaty ratified the deck will then be clear for the initiation of the Harding program for an association of nations.
The passage by congress of the Knox resolution on returning a state of peace with Germany will in no way interfere with the United States later joining her former allies in the Versailles treaty with modifications. The Knox resolution is in no sense a substitute for a peace treaty.
The question which President Harding will have to decide after the Knox resolution has been passed and signed by him is whether he will negotiate a separate peace treaty with Germany without reference to the Versailles treaty or become a party to such parts of the latter as meet with his approval.
All the indications point toward his adopting the latter course.

There may be other causes of greater or less importance than a difference in Republican predilections and hostile senatorial sentiment.
President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes will go as far as they possibly can to make the document acceptable to two-thirds of the senate whose voice is necessary.
But every indication points to the one vital fact in the situation that it is the Harding-Hughes policy, not to make a compromise with Germany but to make peace with her in a partnership with our allies in the war and on the basis of the treaty negotiated at Versailles.

2 MORE WOMEN FACE CHARGE OF MURDER

Cleveland, Ohio—Trial of Mrs. Eva Katherine Kaber and her daughter, Miss Marian McArdle, on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the killing of Dan F. Kaber, wealthy Lakewood publisher Saturday was set for June 24.
Mrs. Kaber and Miss McArdle pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the Kaber case Saturday.
One woman known as the San ducky midwife and who has been in custody all week was to be charged with murder as an accessory before the fact.
The police allege that she provided Mrs. Daniel Kaber with the medicine which was put in the food of her husband, wealthy publisher to "cure" him of habits she disliked.
Kaber was stabbed to death the night of July 18, 1919. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed in the hips and abdomen 24 times and that arsenic had been fed him in his food for a period of weeks before he was murdered.

ANTI-RED ARMY TO BE SENT TO HELP JAPANESE

Washington—About four thousand troops of the remnants of General Wrangel's anti-bolshevik forces, now scattered throughout Turkey, probably will be sent to the Vladivostok area of Siberia to join forces there opposing the so-called "red" army according to official dispatches here Saturday. This intimation has been given to allied officials in Constantinople by the general staff of the Wrangel forces, which were severely defeated by the bolsheviks in southern Russia.
While the Wrangel general staff admitted that about four thousand troops only a small part of the old anti-bolshevik forces may be sent to Siberia, it denied to allied officials that any large part of the old Wrangel force was going to Siberia under Japanese support.

USE KNIFE TO CURE VIOLENTLY INSANE

Remarkable Operation Is Performed on Wild Man, Arrested as Slayer.

Special to Post-Crescent
Ossining, N. Y.—The remarkable brain operation that tamed "the wild beast of Clinton Prison" may have far-reaching effects.
Prison officials believe the surgeon's knife has paved the way to a new reform and they are planning other tests in the hope of restoring reason to other "hopeless" cases of the criminally insane.
The "wild beast" is Roman Leonowski, who at 50 is serving a 20-year sentence for shooting a Schenectady man. Before his victim was killed he sent two bullets into Leonowski's brain.
By a trick of fate Leonowski recovered stood trial and was sent to prison. There he developed violent madness. He acquired superhuman strength and tried to kill himself and all about him. Keepers called him "wild beast." Epilepsy set in adding to his terrors. He was kept manacled hand and foot.
Dr. William I. Chapman, a noted surgeon of Brooklyn, became interested in the case, and said he thought Leonowski could be cured by an operation.
Prisoner Drugged
Fighting madly, his eyes protruding, his mouth frothing the "beast" was brought to Sing Sing from Dannemora prison a month ago.
He was quieted with ether and Dr. Chapman studied him, made X-rays of his brain, and found a bullet in the middle of it, four inches from the top. An operation was decided upon, with the convict's consent, although the chances were only one in a hundred that the patient would recover. Eight specialists looked on.

An incision was made in the scalp directly over the "motor area" and the scalp was pulled down over the ears. A round hole as big as a dollar was then sawed through the skull. Reaching his finger through this hole Dr. Chapman loosened the bullet cautiously so as not to tear the brain tissue or disturb the brain liquids, forced it up to the skull and lifted it out with a pair of pliers. Unable to replace the piece of skull that was sawed out, the scalp was pulled back over it and

GIRLS "MADE OVER" ON MONTANA FARM

Misled Young Women Are Taught to Be Useful Members of Society.

Helena, Mont.—On a big Montana farm, Miss Edith Kassing has 35

"Our girls do almost every bit of the farm work on our 240 acres. Our three winding wooded creeks give us plenty of fishing, and the girls like that."
"We're going in mostly for dairying, pig, sheep and poultry raising, along with small fruits and vegetables."
Sounds like a lot of work, doesn't it? Well, they do have work to do, but don't get the impression that work has a monopoly.
"Play has just as important a place in our plans as work," Miss Kassing declared. "Three saddle horses for the girls were among the first stock bought, and they've been kept pretty busy."
"We have a piano and several good musicians, so evenings are never dull. Soon we are to add movies. We often have picnics in nearby canyons and once a year we're all going on a camping trip way back in the hills."
"Every girl who has not finished the common grades attends school four hours daily under an exceptionally competent teacher."
And work—well, we try to make that interesting, too. One of the girls raised a calf last summer. Our first on the ranch, that took first prize in its class at the county fair and then at the state fair. She received a four-year scholarship to the state university as a reward.
"The state has invested $200,000 in us as a starter and we're out to prove that it was a wise plunge."

MAN ARRESTED HERE SENT TO WORKHOUSE

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Mat Dolan, former detective, ousted from the police department recently by Mayor Hoan, drew a sentence of three months in the house of correction when he pleaded guilty to liquor law violation charges in federal court.
Charles Schmidt drew a $500 fine; John Dassey, $100 fine, and Theodore Leaf, three months and $100. The last three are from Manitowoc.
Frank Pasowicz, who pleaded guilty to having burglarized the Fence, Florence county, postoffice, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.
Alvin Keene, charged with robbing the mails at Antigo, drew a year at North Milwaukee.
Pasowicz, who was sent to the house of correction was arrested here by Sheriff Peter Schwartz after he had escaped from federal officers in Green Bay. The young man was taken into custody when he accosted Schwartz and asked for something to eat. He was nearly famished and a little questioning elicited a confession.

sewed together. The entire operation had taken only 35 minutes.
Today Leonowski sits at the side of his cot in the hospital ward with a book of Tolstoi his favorite author in his hand. His face shines, and his eyes radiate understanding. There is no more "wild beast." He is cured as normal and sorry for his past offenses.
Brain operations have been tried before. A few have been successful, but never has a bullet lodged in the vein center of the brain been taken out and the patient survived.

healthy, ruddy girls—once classed as wayward—who agree with her that "It's easier and jollier for a girl to be good than to be bad."
And although these girls are "sentenced" to remain on the farm until paroled there isn't a lock or a bar or a guard on the place.
"I regard such restraints as positively detrimental," Miss Kassing said. "I want my girls to see that I really have the confidence in them that I tell them I have."
"This isn't a prison, you know." It's a place where we are making mislead girls into useful women.

Paige Makes a Clean Sweep

Breaks Every Official Stock Chassis Record
From 5 to 100 Miles at Uniontown Track

The Paige triumph is now complete.

From 5 to 100 miles, all world's official speed records for a stock chassis were captured by the Paige "6-66" Daytona Model at the Uniontown, Pa., track May 29th, 1921.

Following a world's stock chassis record made January 21st, when the Paige "6-66" Daytona model covered a measured mile in 35.01 seconds, the Uniontown performance caps the climax to a long series of amazing records.

Paige, thus, has made a clean sweep and stands today the unchallenged master of power and speed—the supreme and unique example among automotive products for heroic stamina and endurance.

When the mile record fell in January, Paige determined to make the record complete. With the officials of the A.A.A. racing board in charge, the track at Uniontown, Pa., was selected and Mulford driving a Daytona "6-66" stock chassis was off to shatter records that had remained unassailable since July 28th, 1917.

A Clean Sweep

The first five miles were covered at a terrific pace, the electric timer recording 3 minutes, 15.48 seconds, a speed of 91.8 miles an hour.

From there on the Paige came roaring over the official's wire with clock-like regularity that ate up the miles greedily. Twenty-five thirty, fifty minutes went by and there was no noticeable slackening of speed.

When the Paige thundred across the tape at the end of the 100th mile the feat had been accomplished.

In the most consistent performance ever recorded the records had fallen. The five, ten, twenty, twenty-five, fifty, seventy-five, 100-mile and One-Hour records had been beaten in every instance by a handsome margin.

The official figures showed that Paige had covered the full century in one hour, 6 minutes and 53.26 seconds, or 89 miles, 1510 yards in 60 minutes—which is just 250 yards less than 90 miles. The former hour record was 83 miles.

And now for a brief review of "6-66" history.

MADAME CURIE HAS MADE UP HER MIND ABOUT U. S.

Discoverer of Radium Becomes Dizzy at Thought of Life in America.

Special to Post-Crescent By N. W. Quinn

Pittsburg—Madame Curie knows now what she thinks of America and Americans. A week after her arrival from France the famous discoverer of radium begged to be excused—she had had only time for superficial opinions, and scientists cannot think superficially.

But now—After visiting several of our greatest cities and educational institutions. After receiving from President Harding a $100,000 gift of radium presented by American women.

After inspecting the laboratory here in which most of the world's supply of radium is refined—

The madame speaks.

She has found much that is good in us, something that is—well, not so good.

American women—Ah, yes, how she admires them! So different, so much more active, so much more independent than European women.

American cities—Wonderful, to be sure. But she dislikes the noise, the push, the jam, it tires her so—but so does Paris.

New York—Long and narrow, cold and steeley. Too much marble, too few flowers. Too many people dogs, too few children.

Washington—She likes it best of all. The parks and gardens and statues—ah, there is an inspiration and a happiness.

Our rivers—The Hudson—majestic but spoiled by commerce! The Potomac—there's a river you can take to your heart and love!

Smoking by women—She likes best those women who confess they do smoke—for then you can ask how much.

Jazz—Never heard it—of or of it—either in Paris or New York. What is it?

Carpenter-Dempsey fight—Please write down a blank, like this—

American cooking—Ditto for the

COAL—COKE—WOOD

SAKE OF DIPLOMACY.

The writer came to Pittsburg to interview Madame Curie. He found the famous scientist had surrounded herself with the same barriers that presidents and kings erect. She must not be quoted directly; her daughter Irene was authorized to express her views, yes she understood them fully; Irene is her mother's co-worker.

This reticence of the Paris laboratory, who has stepped for a few weeks into the whirl of American affairs, confesses it is somewhat dizzying. But she enjoys it—much!

The wrinkles around her lips deepen with concentration, but often relax into a motherly smile. Of Polish descent, the madame has a typical Slavic face. The nose is prominent but well molded. Her lips are thin, her chin strong. Her eyes—dark gray—are true mirrors of intellect. Her hair, once brown, now is gray.

Madame Curie dresses most plainly—like an American housewife going to market. Black shirtwaist with some lace and white collar. High shoes with low heels, black, of course. No ornaments, save a ribbon with jeweled clasp, from which dangles the golden key to her casket of radium.

She fingers the key frequently—it is the key to further scientific researches, which she hopes may benefit the world far more than did her discovery of radium.

ONE CHILD DROWNS IN OKLAHOMA FLOODS

By United Press Leased Wire

Oldahoma City—Flood waters of the North Canadian river Saturday had taken one life, inundated several hundred acres of farm lands in north central Oklahoma, and had crippled wire communication in that section of the state, according to advices reaching here.

The infant daughter of J. W. Murphy, living near Dale, was caught by the flood while playing along the banks of the river and drowned.

MINNESOTA CONGRESSMEN FIGHT LUMBER TARIFF

Washington—Incensed at the action of the Republicans of the ways and means committee in agreeing to a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on finished lumber, the Minnesota delegation in congress Saturday decided to protest against it to President Harding. They will urge the president to intervene on the ground that such tariff duties will wreck the party, members of the delegation said.

Representative Anderson was appointed to arrange for the conference with Harding.

WORLD MEETING OF COTTON GROWERS TO BE HELD THIS MONTH

Convention in Liverpool of Great Importance to American Farmers.

Special to Post-Crescent By Milton Brouner

London—The second world cotton conference, which meets in Liverpool June 13 to 15, and in Manchester June 16 to 22, is of tremendous importance to American cotton growers and American textile plants.

The United States is expected to send 180 delegates and close to that many will come from India and Egypt. Britain, of course, will have the largest number. Belgium, France, Italy, Japan, Norway, Sweden, Portugal, Switzerland, Holland, Brazil and Spain will also be represented.

The movement was launched by

BARN DANCE

Tuesday, June 14th, one mile North of Mackville and one and one half mile east.

Fred Wagner.

Americans at the first world conference at New Orleans two years ago. A third meeting, two years hence is in prospect with Switzerland bidding for it.

Important Reports

The best technical brains in Britain have been employed in writing papers and reports for the instruction of delegates. Of intense interest to the American cotton planters will be a report by W. H. Humbery, general manager of the British Cotton Growing Association, whose capital is $2,000,000, subscribed largely by Lancashire cotton manufacturers.

The Humbery organization employed American cotton planters and experts from American agricultural colleges to show how to grow cotton on the American plantation principle in various British colonies.

Lancashire has already benefited by 100,000 bales of colony cotton. And the expectations are to increase this by 50 per cent this year.

It is estimated that in time Africa and Mesopotamia can raise three and a half million bales.

Short Workday

Albert Thomas, a Frenchman who is director of the International Labor Office under the League of Nations, will present a report on hours of work in the textile industry. He will show that the 48-hour week is almost universal in Europe, with the exception of Holland where it is 45 hours and Austria, where those under 18 may work only 44 hours. Britain varies from 44 to 49 hours.

For Good or Evil

"The coming conference," says Sir Clive Macara, the biggest man in the British cotton business, "includes not only growers and manufacturers but the cotton exchange men, machinery makers and other subsidiary interests, whose prosperity all depends upon the cotton industry."

"The power of the conference for good or evil depends upon the manner in which it is handled."

"My policy always has been to live and let live and to want all interests in the cotton industry to have their remuneration for labor and enter prize. Legitimate muddlemen are a vital necessity. They perform a tremendous service in financing operations."

EXPERTS WANT US TO LOVE SNAKES

Make Good Pets and Are Mighty Useful Around the Farm, They Say.

Special to Post-Crescent New York—The only purpose of this story is to make you like snakes. Now, wait a minute—don't laugh! Whether you know it or not, the snake is your best friend. Take that on the word of Miss Elizabeth Ramington, writer game hunter, and member of the Reptile Study Society.

With only two exceptions—the timber rattlesnake and the copperhead—there isn't a snake in America that can harm you. Not a snake that can "sting" you or "squeeze" you, or injure you in any way.

Why run then, when you see a snake? Why scream?

The Reptile Study Society is composed of learned men and women curators, scientists and naturalists. Their chief aim is to banish ignorance. They have just had their annual hunt in the rock crested foot hills of New Jersey where they discovered hundreds of snakes and other reptiles of all kinds.

Allen S. Williams, director, naturalist and lecturer, led the party. He captured, among other snakes, a seven foot "bull" that he called a "Pituophis Sayi Bellona." It was as large around as a drinking glass. Wicked looking fangs protruded two inches from its head. Williams carelessly placed the snake's head against his cheek.

"This snake is like every other, except the rattler and copperhead," he said. "You can pick him up by any part of his body, slap his nose or tickle it, he cannot hurt you. Indeed he's mortally afraid of you. His fangs? That's only his tongue, equipped for smelling and hearing.

Members of the society ask that no one ever kill a snake.

"Snakes are the best friends a man can have," says Williams. "They will eat all the vermin on a farm without touching the green things they will kill every rat and mouse in the cellar they will purge the well of infection and they will protect your household at night by driving away deadly pests."

"Some farmers say snakes injure their cows but they're wrong. You can't make a snake drink milk—or even smell it."

"It is our aim to teach the public these truths, to banish fear, and to stop man's inhumanity toward the snake—his greatest friend."

"BAD" BOY ELECTS WOMAN AS MAYOR

"Granny" Is Peeved When Youngster Is Started for Reform School.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

St. James, Mo.—A little boy who wouldn't behave was the cause of St. James electing the first woman mayor of Missouri.

Mrs. Mayme Ousley was cleaning house last September. Two women were helping her and the paper hanger was there.

"Did you hear that little Jimmie Blank is in jail at Rolla and they're going to send him to the reform school?" one of the women asked.

Jimmie was a boy Mrs. Ousley had had released from the town jail several times after he had been caught putting tick ticks on windows and stealing ice cream at Sunday school picnics.

Mrs. Ousley dropped her mop and called up the marshal. "What's Jimmie in jail for?" she asked.

"We're tired of having bad boys in town," the marshal answered. He also told Mrs. Ousley that the boy hadn't had a hearing but was going to the reform school—that was decided!

She called up the prosecuting attorney at Rolla and told him she would be up there on the first train.

"Paper the house upside down if you want to; I'm going to get Jimmie," she called as she hurried away.

There was some argument, but Mrs. Ousley returned to St. James with the boy. A crowd met her at the station.

"Well, Granny, how'd you get the boy?" they asked.

"I went after him. You can get anything you go after," she replied.

"Right there and then I decided I was going to be mayor," Mrs. Ousley says. "I couldn't understand why they were shipping boys off to reform school without trying to reform them at home. The only way I knew of finding out the things I wanted to know was to become mayor."

She was elected by eight votes. She's determined to put through many "municipal housekeeping reforms."

The "lady mayor" is 34 but she looks and dresses like a debutante.

HERE ARE A FEW CAUSES OF HIGH FREIGHT CHARGES

Railroads Lost Thousands of Dollars Through Classification of Workers.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Washington.—To illustrate his assertion that abnormal increase in railroad labor costs is due not alone to higher wages, but in substantial measure to the existing national agreements which compel the railroads to pay for much work that is not done, Jay Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific company, has filed with the senate committee on interstate commerce which is investigating the railroad situation, a list of 10 typical cases, which Mr. Kruttschnitt states, might be multiplied indefinitely. The list follows:

1. The New York, New Haven & Hartford railway was compelled to pay $9,364 in back pay to four employees because their titles under these agreements were changed by a decision of the director general, while the volume of their work remained the same.

2. A car repairer on the Virginian railway was paid $1,000 for work he never did. He was laid off with other

PETTIBONE'S AUTO OWNERS SALE

Bargain Week Starts Today, June 13 to June 18

What did you pay for a yard of goods last year? ---- What can you buy the same thing for here this week?

Prices Are Down! --- Let Pettibone's Prove it to you

Several weeks ago Secretary Hoover told the United States Chamber of Commerce that the country had safely passed the crisis of deflation. Mr. Hoover said that prices were down, as a comparison with last year shows, and he furthermore says that is the merchant's fault if everybody doesn't know the real drop all prices have taken.

In this great Auto Owner's Sale we are proving the very thing Hoover has proclaimed—and in the proving are such remarkable values that you will long remember this as the great June Week of Bargains.

Pettibone's Prices a year ago were the fairest obtainable. Yet when you compare them with what you can do today at Pettibone's, you will agree with Hoover that IF THE PEOPLE KNEW THE EXTENT OF THE PRICE DROP, business of the country would BOOM. FULL SPEED AHEAD AT PETTIBONE'S all this week—June Bargain Week at the Big Store.

Of course these offerings are open to everybody—and hundreds of people who don't own autos will buy here every day this week—but Auto Owners, especially those from surrounding towns, will be present in swarms. This event is particularly for them.
